

Wholesale Hosting and Connectivity Service

Cost-effective network co-location solutions

The Wholesale Hosting and Connectivity solution from Bell provides well conditioned space to house mission critical hardware and applications in major centres across Canada and in select U.S. locations. As a service or content provider, you can lease secure locking cabinets or caged space, install equipment and interconnect with scalable high-speed Broadband/Internet bandwidth and network services such as Ethernet, IP VPN and Wavelength.

Our co-location facilities offer security and reliability, dual power sources for hardware and robust connectivity. What's more, you can quickly and cost-effectively expand your network reach as well as improve its diversity.

Our solution is designed for service providers who want a cost-effective service to operate hardware and systems from a secure location. Co-location also allows you to expand the reach of your own network and improve its diversity while reducing the up-front capital expenditures.
